Includes Who's who in the Middle East. "Ten years' achievement of the Near East College Association": report for 1928/29, section v ([8] p.) This historical dictionary brings together information about the people, institutions, and events that brought the United States in contact with the Middle East and have played a significant role in shaping our relations with the area from the eighteenth century to the present time. The author's introduction presents an historical review of the role Americans and American institutions have played in the region. Entries include persons who have actually been in the Middle East, particularly those who left notable written or visual records; organizations and institutions that operated in the Middle East; and events that occurred in the area. Following a descriptive essay, each entry lists books and articles written about the subject, and where relevant, general biographical dictionaries in which the subject appears. Lists of abbreviations and place names, as well as separate bibliography and an index, are provided. The book contains short accounts of the lives of Socrates, Joan of Arc, Abraham Lincoln, Louis Pasteur, Tolstoy, Rabindranath Tagore, Mahatma Gandhi, Albert Schweitzer who, by their qualities of mind and heart, have presented an imperishable example of what man is capable of in terms of great human values. The author encountered the Arab world's full complexity while heading the largest American independent school abroad, International College, Beirut, Lebanon. The College serves 3500 Arab students, preschool through high school. Its nonsectarian program accommodates Muslim, Druze and Christian families. The author worked to strengthen the school's American attributes in an atmosphere beclouded by Israeli air attacks, Hezbollah's resistance, Syria's occupation, and allegations of CIA involvement. Indigenous ways of management that had become entrenched during wartime as well as board governance from afar added complications. Despite everything, the school is a model that deserves replication elsewhere in the Middle East, especially after September 11. A reviewer in Connecticut observes: "As our national attention focuses more and more closely on that deeply troubled region, Mr. Obers experiences as president of a large private school take on increased relevance. Collectively, his descriptions develop a complete picture of an ancient and proud culture that is only glimpsed in other parts of the world amid dramatic news copy and images of violence" (Litchfield County Times, November 21, 2003). Includes entries for maps and atlases. "A seductive page-turner that ripples with an undercurrent of suspense." —The Boston Globe "A seamless triumph of storytelling." —Gail Godwin, author of Flora It's 1969, and sixteen-year-old Lucy is about to run away with a much older man to live off the grid in rural Pennsylvania, a rash act that will have frightening repercussions for both her and her older sister, Charlotte. As Lucy's default caretaker for most of their lives, Charlotte has always been burdened by having to be the responsible one, but never more so than when Lucy's dream of a rural paradise turns into a nightmare. With precise, haunting prose and indelible characters, Cruel Beautiful World examines the infinitesimal distance between seduction and love, loyalty and duty, and most of all, tells a universal story of sisterhood and the complicated legacy of family. "Absorbing." —The New York Times Book Review "Captivating."—Los Angeles Times "Engrossing." —People "Page-turning suspense." —New York Journal of Books "Riveting." —Marie Claire "Marvelous."—The National Book Review "Hauntingly brilliant." —Coastal Living "Gripping and suspenseful." —BookPage "Moving." —The Washington Post
